

ABOUT ME

Ambitious and results-driven Business and Economics student at OsloMet with a strong interest in finance, economics and market analysis. I have combined full-time studies with a highly performance-driven role in customer service and sales, delivering documented top results over several years. Named Salesperson of the Year at ice (one of Norway's largest mobile operators) in 2024 and Salesperson of the Month in 10 of 12 months the same year. Experience from customer service, B2C sales and factory work from a young age reflects a strong work ethic, self-discipline and drive. I am now seeking new opportunities where I can apply my analytical skills and commercial understanding.
